Brother Knights,

"Esto Dignus". Be Worthy - the motto of the Columbian Squires. Did you know we have a Columbian Squires Circle associated with our council? The Columbian Squires is a program of the Knights of Columbus for Catholic young men, ages 10 to 18. There are over 1,500 circles worldwide throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, the Philippines, Puerto Rico, Guatemala, Panama, Cuba, the Bahamas, the Virgin Islands, Guam, and on U.S. military bases abroad. Founded on August 4, 1925 with the institution of Duluth Circle 1 in Duluth, Minn., the Columbian Squires program strives to provide "the spiritual, cultural, civic, social and physical improvement of its members, and the development of their leadership qualities." The Squires involves young men in programs to benefit the Church, the community, as well as in recreational and social activities.

Our Squires Circle is small but being associated with a council with over 400 members, it has the potential to grow and prosper under the guidance of a few good men. What can you do to assist our Squires? If you have a son or know of another Knight or church member with a son between the ages of 10 and 18 you might encourage their involvement with the Squires. You might be interested in getting involved with our circle as a counselor yourself.

If you're interested in assisting our Columbian Squires Circle grow and spreading the principal of charity as we are called to do as Knights please let me or Jaime Ibarra or John Clennan know of your interest.

Fraternally Yours,

John Hermann
Grand Knight

There was a 1st Degree in our Hall during the August 18 meeting and there is one newly initiated member of Council 4204 - Josh Luedicke. New brothers John Weesner and Tom Lollar joined the Council at a 1st, 2nd & 3rd Degree ceremony on July 26. Also, Dr. Ken Buckle and Joseph Mastrangelo (the new St. Theresa Youth Director) have transferred into Council 4204. Welcome Josh, John, Tom, Ken and Joseph to the KCs and Council 4204.

The annual dues for all members 23 and over is $36 per year. The dues for youth 18 thru 22 is $1 a month or $12 per year. The Council is again sponsoring a golf team in the October 6 Shepherd's Cup golf tournament. This is the Cardinal's tournament and half the proceeds go to St. Mary's Seminary and the other half to Catholic Education and Faith Formation. Any council member who wants to be considered for the golf team needs to notify me and I will put your name into the hat. A drawing will be held at the September 15th meeting for the members of the team. Alternates will also be drawn. Names received so far are: Jim Collins and Pete Muceus. There will be a 1st/2nd/3rd Degree in the Youth Center at St. Theresa on Saturday December 13. For all the 1st Degree members who did not go to the Major Degree last month this is the opportunity to go here at home – no extended travel. The 1st Degree will start at 8:00am and the 2nd/3rd Degree starts at 10:00am. This will be followed by a meal. Lots of help from current 3rd Degree members will be needed. Plan to attend the 2nd & 3rd Degrees if you are a 1st Degree member; and plan to help if you are a current 3rd Degree member.

There is a 4th Degree exemplification on Saturday October 4. Any 3rd Degree brother is eligible to join the 4th Degree. Pete has the application, known as a Form 4. There are financial requirements so talk with Pete or the Grand Knight.

Brother Joseph Mastrangelo, the Youth Director at St Theresa, is looking for 5 or 6 small group leaders. The groups meet on Sunday nights during the school year. He definitely wants more men who will serve as role models to the male youth. The children will arrive about 6:15 to 6:30 and be there until 8:15. He also wants to create 4 cooking teams that would cook pizza or hot dogs and someone to organize the entire cooking effort. He sees a group of 5 on each cooking team. Joseph sees volunteers and parents both being on the cooking teams and as small group leaders. This is a chance for the Knights to provide service to the church. Joseph's work number is 281-494-1156 x245.

The State Convention next year will be held in Houston. There is a group of Knights and their ladies, led by brother Larry Zapalac, who are planning the convention under the overall direction of State Deputy Terry Simonton. There are monthly meetings the 4th Tuesday of each month at Council 3077 with snacks at 6:30 and the meeting at 7:00pm. Larry says the meeting will only last 1 hour. Volunteers and all kinds of help are needed. Contact Pete Muceus with questions or offers to help.

If your dues have not been paid, please pay them now.

Knights of Columbus National News:

ON: 8/8/2014, BY TOM TRACY CATHOLIC NEWS SERVICE , IN: NATION

Knights sing during the Aug. 5 opening Mass of the 132nd Supreme Convention of the Knights of Columbus in Orlando, Fla. (CNS photo/Tom Tracy)

ORLANDO, Fla. (CNS) -- As an international fraternal organization, the Knights of Columbus is well-positioned to follow Pope Francis' witness of "love for the sick, the suffering and the poor," said Supreme Knight Carl A. Anderson.

That "extraordinary witness" and the pope's admonition to all to cast aside indifference have "captured the imagination of the world," he said Aug. 5 at the opening business session of the Knights' 132nd Supreme Convention in Orlando.

"As Knights of Columbus, we are well-positioned to respond," said Anderson.

He made the remarks in a lengthy annual report detailing the organization's accomplishments and initiatives in 2013.

The Aug. 5-7 convention celebrated a year in which the organization reported an all-time record for charitable giving: more than $170 million and more than 70.5 million hours of service to charitable causes in the United States and elsewhere the Knights are active.

Response to unexpected tragedies played a large role in members' activities last year, according to Anderson, while the Knights continued their support within their communities for the Knights of Columbus Coats for Kids and Food for Families initiatives; programs for those with intellectual disabilities; blood drives; and partnerships with Habitat for Humanity, Special Olympics and the American Wheelchair Mission.

Knights were part of relief efforts following two natural disasters in the Philippines; tornadoes in Moore, Oklahoma; floods in Alberta, Canada; the factory explosion in West, Texas; and the Boston Marathon bombing.

Anderson noted the year also saw the Knights continue their support for the victims of Hurricane Sandy, the October 2012 super storm, and for the people of Newtown, Connecticut, as they recovered from the late 2012 school shooting that left 20 children and seven adults dead.

"Charity has been at the heart of the Knights' mission for the past 132 years," said Anderson. "Whether with funds or service, and whether quietly helping someone overcome a personal tragedy or assisting in the aftermath of a widely known humanitarian disaster, the outpouring of charity by our members produces meaningful results, especially by helping to bring peace of mind to those who find themselves in incredibly difficult situations."

Anderson also noted:

-- Quebec led all Knights of Columbus jurisdictions with charitable donations of more than $11 million.

-- Record membership overall, including a new state benchmark of more than 100,000 members, in Texas.

-- Growth of membership and volunteer hours in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Central Europe and Asia.

-- A new family program in advance of next year's World Meeting of Families in Philadelphia.

Anderson made special mention of the establishment of the first Knights of Columbus council in South Korea, a nation with 5.5 million Catholics and which he described as the fastest growing Catholic community in the world.

He noted Pope Francis' trip to South Korea Aug. 14-18, saying that visit and a papal trip to the Philippines Jan. 15-19 "will play a significant role in the future of the Knights of Columbus."

With regard to the federal Affordable Care Act, Anderson said the Health and Human Services mandate that most Catholic employers provide contraceptive coverage "cannot be fixed and it must be repealed."

He pointed to the U.S. Supreme Court's Hobby Lobby decision this summer, which said closely held for-profit companies could be exempted from some requirements of the federal health care law because of the owners' religious beliefs. He said the Knights hope the high court will follow that ruling with one "to protect the religious liberties of entities such as the Little Sisters of the Poor," who are challenging the process required to be exempted from the mandate.

"What are we to tell our children: that government has become the final arbiter of conscience? That the voice of government must always have the last word?" he asked.

Anderson said that while some politicians try to divide the American people on social issues, the Knights' polling "has found great unity among Americans," even on abortion, "an issue often considered the most divisive."

"A majority of Americans believe life begins at conception, and more than six in 10 think abortion is morally wrong. And, perhaps most importantly, more than eight in 10 Americans say that laws can protect both the well-being of a woman and the life of her unborn child," he said.

Nearly 90 archbishops and bishops -- including 11 cardinals -- were expected to join approximately 2,000 Knights and family members for the convention. The theme of this year's conference is "You Will All Be Brothers: Our Vocation to Fraternity."

A Return to 'Noble Beauty' Church Renovations Enhance Sacredness of Sanctuaries

by Susan Klemond, Register Correspondent Sunday, Aug 24, 2014

Rising to the beams of the modern, wood-paneled ceiling of St. Theresa Church in Sugar Land, Texas, are gold marble columns, a peaked baldachin and white arches — the renovated church sanctuary at this suburban Houston parish.

Motivated by the church's acquisition of a new organ whose pipes would be placed on either side of the sanctuary, in 2005, the church's pastor, Father Stephen Reynolds, and parish leaders consulted with Duncan Stroik, an architect and University of Notre Dame professor, to transform the formerly stark sanctuary so that the altar, unified with the tabernacle and crucifix, would be the church's true center. The renovation was complete in 2007.

Influenced by a return to tradition and a desire for the sacred, parishes around the country are bringing elements of ancient Greek and Roman architecture and Christian history into their unornamented 20th-century churches. Renovators seek to increase the centrality and sacredness of Christ's incarnation, the Eucharist and the liturgy in their churches in a way that is both transcendent and beautiful.

Churches That Look Like Churches

People want churches that look like churches, said Stroik, whose South Bend, Ind., firm has done classical renovations in many churches, along with new church designs. Restoring sanctuary features such as the altar, tabernacle and crucifix to prominence is a popular renovation route. "Not everybody can afford to build a new building, but they want to beautify the place of prayer and the place of the liturgy," he said. "I think we're going to see a lot of small projects to renovate and beautify churches."

Rediscovering tradition is gaining in popularity, agreed Denis McNamara, associate director and assistant professor of the Liturgical Institute at the University of St. Mary of the Lake in Mundelein, Ill.

"People are using finer materials for their altars, moving tabernacles back to the center axis and beginning to understand figural art's role in giving people an image of the population of heaven," he said. "People are also rediscovering the importance of flooring in sanctuaries and churches, removing the industrial-quality carpet and using higher-quality materials like stone."

Understanding Vatican II

Modernist churches built in the past 50 years represent a theological and architectural break with the past often wrongly attributed to the Second Vatican Council, Stroik said. The language of Vatican II's document on the liturgy, Sacrosanctum Concilium, isn't prescriptive and, unfortunately, was misinterpreted, he said.

"It didn't say we must white-wash interiors and get rid of the traditional art," Stroik said. "It didn't say hide the tabernacle or move it out of the sanctuary. It didn't say we should gather in the round or that the most important goal is to see other people, which happened in a lot of places. I think that's one of the great myths of what we say Vatican II said vs. what it actually said." According to McNamara, the Vatican II document actually "turns men's minds to God and his glory." It states "that churches should be composed of 'signs and symbols of heavenly realities,' that they should be worthy and decorous and possess a 'noble beauty.'"

Showcasing the Sacred

Making sure churches reflect heaven is a way to evangelize, said Father John Paul Erickson, director of the Office of Worship for the St. Paul and Minneapolis Archdiocese. "The current movement to classical forms, I think, is part of a wider phenomenon of not abandoning our dialogue with the world, but we can't forget who we are and where we come from."

Church architecture is not only beautiful, but sacramental and educational, Father Erickson said. "With a religion like ours, that is so deeply embedded with symbology, we need to be very careful and clear about the symbols we use. A beautiful sanctuary ... contributes to the theological education of the people."

Along with the liturgy and other aspects of parish life, church buildings assist in the New Evangelization, Stroik said.

“Over the period of years that you go to that church, you’re learning about and deepening your faith, and so it’s worthwhile to have the architecture be an appropriate sermon, as it were.” A church should reflect theology rather than simply reflect an architectural style, McNamara agreed. It “should be thought of as sacraments are thought of: Humans use material from the earth with the help of the Holy Spirit to reveal the things of heaven. A church building is an image of Christ’s mystical body glorified and perfected, compared in the Book of Revelation to the ‘city’ of heaven with golden, jewel-covered walls. It is filled with heavenly beings and centered on God. If the church building appears empty, arbitrary and dull, rather than populated, theologically intentional and radiant, people intuitively know something is wrong.”

Renovators should make ancient principles contemporary to us, Father Erickson added. When the Carmelite sisters of the Monastery of the Infant of Prague in Traverse City, Mich., asked Stroik to redesign their chapel sanctuary in 2010, they adorned the simple 1960s-era chapel with a few high-quality materials: rich-colored marble and alabaster, mahogany columns and a large crucifix.

“If you have something valuable, it’s going to last forever,” Mother Mary of Jesus said. “If we hadn’t been able to afford it, we would have done the best we could [with less], but the Lord kept providing the money.”

In 2011, Father Bob Schwartz, now-retired pastor of Our Lady of Grace in Edina, Minn., wanted the church’s renovated sanctuary to enhance and strengthen the previous design. With a plan by Minnesota liturgical designer Father James Notebaart, the parish installed an arched stone entry leading to the tabernacle. The parish also had a light-colored stone floor installed in the sanctuary to further highlight the tabernacle.

The renovation shows the centrality of the Eucharistic celebration while also reverencing the reserved Blessed Sacrament in the tabernacle, Father Schwartz said. It places a distinct focus on the Eucharist but doesn’t disrupt the Georgian-colonial architecture of the 28-year-old contemporary church, he added.

“There is a sense that this is a sacred space, and you can come here anytime as a sacred space,” Father Schwartz said. “The Eucharist is the reason that it’s a sacred space.” St. Theresa parishioners near Houston are pleased with the renovation of their church and chapel (also renovated in a classical style), Father Reynolds said: “I think people appreciate it.” Whether or not they “update” their church sanctuaries with elements reminiscent of Roman cathedrals, Catholics are seeking in sacred renovations what they’re not finding in “modern” churches: beauty and transcendence that offer a foretaste of heaven, Father Erickson emphasized. “While the earthy and the earthly need to be certainly addressed in the liturgy, the elevation of our minds, of our hearts and of our souls to heavenly things is a critical part of the liturgy, and beautiful spaces help us with that,” he said. “They more accurately portray as much as we can this side of the veil what is really going on in the sacred liturgy.”

Special notice from a widow of a great Knight:

All,

Monica Kilgore asks for the following to be sent to the membership. For those of you who do not know, Monica is deceased brother Ken Kilgore's widow. Ken was only 57 when he died after years of fighting organ rejection and many illnesses. Ken was a fighter and former police officer.

Pete

A scholarship is being given to two eighth graders at my school in memory of Ken. Many members of the St. Basil Council along with the with the Bishop Morkovsky Assembly were big contributors. The scholarship is being given on out September 5, 2014. This is the day after Ken's birthday and our regular Mass. All Knights are welcome. Mass begins at 8:30 and there will be a short reception afterwards. The address of St. Augustine is 5500 Laurel Creek Way, Houston 77017. It takes between 35 to 45 minutes to get there. I would encourage carpooling to make use of the HOV lane. The best way I have found to go is to take 59 North, exit 45 South, continue on 45 South to the Howard exit. Turn left on Howard and it will become Richey Road. Laurel Creek Way will be on the left and there is a light there. Again, I would like to thank all the Knights for the prayers, the friendship, and all the hundreds of things that were done to make life easier for Ken and me. I know that Ken still prays for you all.

*Most Sincerely,
Monica Kilgore*
